

My home should be safe, bright, peaceful and full of people. I feel at home with my family because they are with me in good and in bad times. Friends are important, too, because without friends you are nothing.

Kasachstan is the country where I was born but the country where I feel at home is Germany. All the members of my family live here, except for my aunt. To feel at home I need my family around me, my PC, my play station, and a neighbourhood like the one I have now. (Anton, 8s)
