

The place I feel more comfortable is at Dominican Republic where I come from. The reason I like it better is because it is always summer and most of my family and old friends are there. When I go visit there I feel like I never want to leave and stay and live. I lived most of my life there because after a couple of months that I was born my mum took me over there and I came to New York when I was six years old.

Alina, Queens, NY, USA