

Being a stranger in our class

At the beginning people don't know you. They don't know what they can suppose to expect from you – you're something new for them.

The first impression is quite important. Some of the classmates will treat you like a friend but some of them might treat you like a trash. It's up to disposition. Mainly it's up to you. You have to be conformable or you might happen to be “outsider” or they might even start to bully you. Of course it depends on what the people in the class are like. They might seem to be mean but after you get to know them better they might seem just “all right”.

So my advice is keep it friendly as long as they do.

Michael Šopík, 1. MP
SOŠ Luhačovice